

I believe the FCC should be helping to serve the public interest rather than big corporate interests. It is disgraceful that you should be seeking to change the rules of corporate ownership of media companies. This will lead to the consolidation of this industry into the hands of the very few rich media giants, who will control everything we read and view. I hope you reconsider your decision, as you will be harming the future generations of our society from open and varied opinion, the bedrock of our culture.

Sincerely,
Paul Gold
